

CLAIMS OF SPAIN MET BY A DENIAL

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS MAKE A STATEMENT.

We Have Done All Possible—United States Government Prepared to Show That "All Due Diligence" Has Been Used to Restrain Filibusters—Await Woodford's Message

Washington, Oct. 26.—It is stated positively at the white house and at the state department that the answer of Spain to the United States has not reached the president or Secretary Sherman, nor have they received the 2,000 word cable communication which it is said Minister Woodford sent in cipher from Madrid last Saturday.

It is not doubted among the officials that the basis of the Spanish reply to Mr. Woodford's note will be the charge that the United States has not observed the requirements of international law in the matter of preventing filibustering. In this case the state department will have some pertinent facts to present, which, its officials believe, will completely alienate from Spain any sympathy that she may have attracted from other European nations on that score.

It is asserted positively that in no single case where the Spanish authorities have brought to the attention of this government the fact that an illegal expedition was about to start for Cuba has it neglected to use all the means permitted by law to prevent the start. It has been so indulgent in this respect as to accept statements from the Spanish officials not accompanied by proofs of the facts alleged, but mere suggestions that they had reason to believe that an expedition was formed.

The government has gone to extreme lengths in restraint of American commerce on insufficient evidence furnished by the Spanish government, which has resulted in the preferring of large claims by American shipowners for illegal detention of their ships. Then the expense of maintaining the patrols along the Atlantic and gulf coasts has been very heavy. Every time the state department has been obliged to call upon a collector at a port the result has been a heavy bill of expenses for tugs, special officers and other charges, while the attorney-general's office and in fact most of the executive departments have been put to more or less trouble and expense.

The navy department especially has been embarrassed, owing to the necessity for diverting vessels from other places for the disagreeable Florida patrol. One official estimated the expense the United States has been put to to protect the Cuban coast for Spain at about $2,000,000. This is probably a large estimate, but a naval officer who is thoroughly cognizant of the strain put upon the department by the patrol stated that it would really be cheaper for the United States to send a fleet to Cuban and blockade the coast there against incoming filibusters than to try to stop them on the Atlantic coast line.

Altogether the officials here are confident of their ability to show that the government has more than complied with the requirements of international law, which, as laid down in the Alabama arbitration, simply demands that a nation "use due diligence" to prevent the departure of hostile expeditions.

A denial is made by an authoritative source that Minister Dupuy de Lome had intimated to the state department that Spain would resort to the search and seizure of suspected American vessels on the high seas if filibustering expeditions continued to leave this country. It is said a prerequisite to such action would be an announcement by Spain of the blockade of all the ports of Cuba, and certainly no steps along such radical lines have been proposed thus far.

Luetgert's Second Trial.

MAY DEFER THE SALE.

Turn In Union Pacific Case—Reorganization Committee Protests.

New York, Oct. 26.—The Union Pacific reorganization committee made the following announcement Monday: "The attorney-general has notified this committee that he proposes to ask the court for an adjournment of the foreclosure sale of the Kansas Pacific and Union Pacific railway property to Dec. 15, so as to postpone final disposition until after congress shall have met. This action is no doubt taken to free the administration from embarrassment."

"The reorganization committee has, however, reached the conclusion that the interest of the security-holders, represented by it, and of the syndicate furnishing the funds to finance the reorganization, demand reorganization without any further delay. In this situation the committee contemplates, so as to gain prompt possession of the Union Pacific line, to oppose any adjournment of the sale of the main line and to bid it in, if need be, for the full amount of the government's claim, the additional sum involved in this being about $8,000,000.

"No change in the plan of reorganization is involved."

WON'T COMPROMISE WITH SOCIAL SIN

FIRM STAND TAKEN BY THE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.

Lady Somerset Rebuked—There Must Be No Suggestion of Faint-Heartedness In the Fight of the Organization Against Vice—Report of the Treasurer.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 26.—At the opening of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention Monday Miss Frances Willard read a letter from Lady Henry Somerset explaining her views on the social purity question, and the executive committee was instructed to prepare a suitable reply. Lady Somerset favors a system of license and regulation.

It appears now that the difference of opinion which most of the delegates have with Lady Henry will take most of the time of the convention.

After the reading of the letter a communication from Mrs. Josephine E. Butler, superintendent of the purity department of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union, who is now in Switzerland, was read. Mrs. Butler strongly denounced the position of Lady Somerset, and wanted the convention to adopt strong resolutions on the subject.

The executive committee passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, The regulation of vice has become an aggressive question in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the discussion of it as represented in the ontigious diseases act has assumed a character which we cannot ignore;

"Resolved, That while we do not forget that even the most consecrated and true may honestly differ in relation to vital matters, and while we would abstain from anything which would savor of criticism or judgment of motives, yet we, the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, must earnestly protest against anything that would ever seem to commit our great organization to any effort at regulation or license, as applied to any and all forms of sin, and we must unequivocally declare our abhorrence of any compromise whatever with anything which is wrong in principle or sinful in practice. We utter this, our conviction and protest, and our determination never to surrender the principles for which we have always stood as a body, and this we do in the name of God, and home and every land."

The following resolution shows where the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is on the question of international arbitration:

"Resolved, That while we, the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, rejoice over the proposition of an Anglo-American treaty, and much appreciate the courtesy of Great Britain in taking the initiative step in this matter, we exceedingly regret the persistency of the United States senate in refusing to ratify this treaty, the more so since by so doing they neglected to voice the sentiments of the people they were elected to represent."

Other resolutions drafted declared against lynching, for church co-operation and for equal suffrage.

The executive committee rescinded the prior action by which Miss Lottie E. Wiggins was to be appointed office secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It was also decided to abolish the office of honorary vice-presidents.

Treasurer Mrs. Mary G. Sanderson presented her annual report, in part as follows:

Balance from 1895-6, $969; interest to Jan. 1, 1897, $22; annual fees, $1,668; donations, $310; sale of reports, etc., $79; total, $3,050. Disbursements—Missionary work, $1,918; grants to superintendents, $81; expenses of officers, $576; polygot petition, $13; printing, $51; advertising, $191; balance on hand, $218; total, $3,050.

GALE ON ATLANTIC FLOODS THE COST

FURIOUS SEAS DRIVEN INLAND BY HIGH WINDS.

The New Jersey and Long Island Coast Suffer Greatly From a Hurricane—Many Vessels Stranded—The Damage Will Reach Thousands of Dollars.

New York, Oct. 26.—High tides and higher winds that drove the sea inland have caused an immense amount of damage along the New Jersey and Long Island coast. Many buildings erected on the sand at the summer resorts were knocked to pieces and carried out to sea, and coast-line railroads have suffered much loss and delay by reason of the storm. The highest tides in years, supplemented by the wind, which blew at the rate of from thirty-five to ninety miles an hour, prevailed Monday, and when the high water reaches its maximum even greater damage is expected unless the gale abates. From down the Long Island coast the heaviest damage is reported.

Many Vessels Stranded.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 26.—One of the fiercest northeast gales of years has swept the lower Jersey coast and up Delaware bay for the last twenty-four hours. Many vessels have been stranded and there is an unconfirmed report that a ship went down off shore Monday morning. Portions of the board walk have been swept away, as well as cottage porches and fences, and the damage is estimated at thousands of dollars.

Much damage has been done in the vicinity of Lewes, Del.

RECIPROCITY SENTIMENTS IN BAVARIAN DIET.

Favored Nation Claim Has a Direct Bearing On the United States—It Announces Lively Debate In the German Legislative Assembly—Negotiations Defended.

London, Oct. 26.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times, commenting upon the demands of Deputy Rattzienger and others in the Bavarian diet last Thursday, for a denunciation of the favored-nation treaties with the United States and Argentina and an increase in the duties on cereals in the interest of Bavarian agriculture, says:

"The manifestation of strong protectionist tendencies in the Bavarian chamber can not be regarded without anxiety here. The confession of the premier, Baron von Crailsheim, that Bavaria advocated an increase of duties on grain showed that the policy of Bismarck and the Peasants' league has already borne fruit.

"This attitude of Bavaria will not facilitate the task of Baron von Bulow, who will have to defend in the reichstag the results of commercial negotiations with the United States and England."

MILTON ATHLETES WIN GOOD REPORT

Albion Was Victorious But the Contest Was Lively—Milton Girls Won the Basket Ball Game—Rock Prairie Church Opened After Completion of Improvements.

(THE GAZETTE AGENCY
W. W. CLARK, Manager,
Milton, Wis., Oct. 26, 1897.)

Athletics had quite a boom here Friday afternoon. The new band enlivened the occasion with good music and despite the chilly air there was a good attendance of ladies. The exercises opened with a game of basket ball between the lady teams of Albion Academy and Milton College which the latter won by a score of 7 to 0. This was followed by the football game between the Academy and College eleven. The visitors are much heavier than the home team and show careful coaching. They won by a score of 20 to 0 and the college boys have no reason to feel ashamed of their defeat, it being their second game. Some changes should be made in the eleven, however, before playing another game. Weight is an advantage in the game, but it doesn't count unless coupled with a good head and plenty of nerve.

The literary societies of Milton college held a public session at college chapel Saturday evening. The entertainment gave general satisfaction and much credit is due to its promoters for their labor and skill in placing it before the public in a proper manner. The program included:

CLAIM AGAINST KEYES ESTATE

Chicago Woman Awarded $125 For Services—Judge Sale's Decision.

Miss Julia Fletcher through her attorney, Silas Menzies, of Beloit, presented a claim in Judge Sale's court yesterday for $300 against the estate of the late Stanton Keyes, of Beloit. Mr. Keyes died about a year ago. The Fletcher claim was for services rendered in the household. The court after hearing the evidence awarded the claimant $125. Miss Fletcher now lives in Chicago.

Few men in this country are better or more favorably known to the drug and medicine trade than Mr. E. J. Schall, buyer in proprietary medicine department of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis. He says: "My boy came home from school with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain. I dressed the wound and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm, freely; all pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time, it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism, I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." Sold by C. D. STONE QUARRY FOR CITY

The same offer is made at the Pratt quarry north of the city.

The city is offered two acres of stone ledge on the Stout farm opposite the Institute for the Blind for $500.

Alderman Milwaukee offers to furnish crushed stone at 25 cents a square yard in the lot.

The council will take no action on the matter for the present.

GIRLS DRINK BEER IN BACK ALLEYS

MISS KIMBALL SHOCKED BY THE SIGHT.

She Will Establish a Mission Home At Once and Says She Hopes to Work A Great Improvement In the Moral Life of Janesville Young People.

Girls who are getting into reckless ways are to be sought by Miss Mary Kimball. An effort to save them is to be made by City Missionary Mary Kimball.

A missionary home is to be started at 1015 Jackson street, over which Miss Kimball will preside.

Close investigation has revealed startling facts to Miss Kimball.

"Girls in this city who are still in their teens are to be seen almost any evening in the back alleys of business blocks, drinking beer and wine in company with young men," she said today. "On the outskirts of the town almost any bright Sunday afternoon may be seen boys and girls playing cards and using vile language that would hardly be tolerated in the slum districts of Chicago. Around the Millmore quarry and the school for blind shocking scenes of this sort are common. My mission home is to be established in the hope of putting a stop to this kind of vice and to have the girls and young men lead a purer and better life."

"Services are to be held Sunday afternoons and once a week a free lunch is to be provided for all those who are in want."

In order to carry on this work Miss Kimball says she must have a helping hand from the public in the way of food, clothing or cash and that she hopes the people will look at the matter in the right light.

DR. WILLIAMS' RARE CASE

Twice in Six Months He Has Performed Caesarian Section.

Dr. Daniel H. Williams, formerly of this city, is winning high honors as a surgeon in Washington. Twice in six months he has performed the rarest of all surgical operations, the Caesarian section. Never before, so far as known, has the operation been performed successfully in the District of Columbia. The mother and child in Dr. Williams' first case are well and hearty today. A similar recovery is as used in the second case. The latter case was complicated by the presence of a fibroid tumor. Hence the operation was necessarily a double one, that of Caesarian section and hysterectomy. The Washington Star says:

"The patient operated on yesterday was Annie Watson, a mulatto woman, thirty-three years of age, married, and the mother of two children. A diagnosis was made by Drs. Rayburn and Williams, prior to her entrance in the hospital for an obstetric tumor in the pelvis. Surgeon-in-chief Williams at once decided that the woman and her child could live only through the performance of the double operation. It was also decided that it should take place as quickly as possible, her pulse hovering around 155, with a temperature of 105. Her general condition was also far from good. So the operation was set for 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and at that hour fully twenty physicians had assembled at the hospital to witness it."

"The anesthetic was started at 10:20, the woman's pulse before anesthesia being 120 and weak. The operation was commenced twenty minutes later. At 10:55 a well-formed female child, weighing seven pounds, was removed alive, and was in an anesthetic condition, from the effects of the ether administered to the mother, from which it recovered in a comparatively short time."

"During the operation, which lasted two hours and a half, the woman's pulse ran from 120 to 150. Three transfusions of salt solution and a hypodermic injection of strychnine were administered during the time she was on the operating table. She revived well, however, and today is resting very easily, enjoying a practically normal condition."

"The operation of Caesarian section so named, because, as tradition says, Julius Caesar came into this world through it, is not only one of, if not the rarest of surgical operations, some surgeons dying after long lives of service without either having seen or performed one, but is also one adopted only as a last resort to save the existing and unborn life, because of the great mortality which attends it as a rule. Indeed, it is said that it was performed for two hundred years without success. As has been said, the two operations performed by Dr. Williams, are so far as is known, the only ones ever performed in the district in which the mothers and children survived. Hence, the operating surgeon of yesterday was warmly congratulated by the physicians present upon not only the success of the operation but also upon the good fortune of in securing two such cases in a short time."

"Many have said," their children would have died of croup, if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given, write Kellan & Curran, druggists, Seaview, Va. "People come from far and near to get it and speak of it in the highest terms." This is equally true of this remedy in every community where it is known. Buy a bottle at Stevens drug store and try it yourself.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Do people buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference to any other, in fact almost to the exclusion of all others?

They know from actual use that Hood's is the best, i. e., it cures when others fail. Hood's Sarsaparilla is still made under the personal supervision of the educated pharmacist who originated it.

The question of best is just as positively decided in favor of Hood's as the question of comparative sales.

Another thing: Every advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla is true, is honest.

THE STAFF OF LIFE.

Bread is the staff of life. All right—if it's good bread. A man can live and thrive on nothing but bread—if it's good bread. It is something that has to be studied to be done well. We make good bread, pies, cakes, cookies and everything a baker should make. We do nothing else. Day in and day out we do nothing but bake. Isn't it natural that we should do it better than some one who hasn't studied it, and made a business of it?

Sickness Followed Exposure.

The Dangers Experienced in These Days of Civilization, From Inclement Weather.

The Indian Ignored the Elements.

How the Indian's Health and Long Life, May be Possessed by the White Man, Regardless of Climate.

A sudden change in temperature, a drenching, a forced exposure to extreme cold or to extreme heat, is apt to break down a system already weakened and about to succumb to disease, so that a severe, if not a fatal illness, may be quickly developed. By all who are suffering from a deranged condition of the liver, the kidneys and the stomach, or from impurities of the blood, the greatest care should be exercised as to such exposure, or what is better care should be taken to make these organs well. It is in your power to do this. Do as the Indian did. Rely on Nature's own remedies. Keep the great life centres of the body well and the blood pure, and like the Indian you will be able to stand weather that is hot or cold, wet or dry. Mr. John H. Arms of 1134 Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes to the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co. as follows:—

"Last week I was caught out in a shower and thoroughly wet. This resulted in a cold, accompanied by a disagreeable dizzy sensation. I tried Kickapoo Indian Remedies, bathing my head with Kickapoo Indian Oil, and getting immediate relief from my pain. Also took Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Before I had taken a bottle I was again a well man, and feel that it saved me from a fit of sickness. We have used these remedies in our house ever since, and I cannot commend them too highly. My wife was in very poor health after suffering from the grip. Sagwa dispelled the disagreeable effects of this dangerous disease. She is now enjoying her usual good health." If others would not wait until too late, but take Kickapoo Indian Remedies at the first premonition of disease, not only would continued good health be theirs, but they could enjoy the long life which has made the Indian famous. Kickapoo Indian Sagwa can be bought at all druggists for $1 a bottle, as can all the other remedies, at prices equally reasonable. These medicines are harmless, although powerful in their effect, as they contain no poisonous ingredient of any description.

WITH THE YARDMASTER

THE life of an actor is not a sunshine" said J. Knox Gavito the yardmaster last night. "I have been in the show business for eleven years and I have seen a few gloomy days that kept me guessing whether I would get a chance to all-viat: that growing condition in my stomach or not. Speaking of gloomy days, makes me think of my experience in the circus business. The style of the company was Allen, Griffin & Gavin. We had a fourteen foot round top tent, a spin of balky mules and a black bear. We started through Michigan to get rich. When we reached Adrian I remember I told Allen, when he hitched up the mules to be sure and lengthen the tugs as that would make the parade seem longer. We found business very dull. The people did not know how to appreciate a good thing. The fact is we never struck a town where the people seemed to work up any enthusiasm over our show. At ten o'clock every morning we fed the bear one loaf of bread was all we could allow him. One evening, after a long day's journey (afoot by the way) I discovered that I was growing lank, and as hungry as a wolf. There was just one loaf of bread left and while the bear was not looking I took that. This of course left the bear short on breakfast. After that we fed him on corn stalks until he got so stiff that he could not turn the corners, then he laid down by the road side and died for the want of work. You may imagine that we all felt worried as he was the feature of the circus and a smarter bear never took a winter's vacation. * * *

"When we reached Ludington a cyclone struck town the same day and the blow killed Allen. Then the style of the company was Griffin & Gavin, but that did not worry us so much as getting something to eat. Allen thought we had better disband and try to get work. We tried to find work. We were willing to cut wood or to husk corn, but my make up was against me. I wore one of those old time silk hats, the same shape the Franciscan brothers wore during the building of Muckross Abbey. My Prince Albert coat was 'Just Behind The Times.' How I did long for black-berry season so I could pick my way home. * * *

"With heavy hearts and sore feet we left Ludington for Bear Lake. When we reached the lake we noticed a sign nailed upon a tree, which read: 'A reward of $5 will be paid to any person rescuing anyone perishing in this lake.' I told Griffin to jump in and play poshing and I would rescue him and get the $5.

"Now, when I bob up and down three or four times, you come in after me," he said.

"When he had bobbed up long enough to be out of breath, it occurred to me that I could not swim. By a scratch he rescued himself, but from that day to this, he has never spoken to me.

"You see there is a heap of hard luck connected with the show business. * * *

"At one time I started a ten cent museum in Detroit. The second week the ostled man eloped with the fat woman, and the bearded lady died, and left me five bearded children to take care of. After I recovered from that blow, I organized a stock company in Chicago. I hired an advance man by the name of Withier. He was very bald and we called him 'Scarcity' for short. I sent him to Indiana with instructions to stop off at the first good town, make a date, put up the paper, and write me often. I waited ten days, and never a line from 'Scarcity.' I decided to take my company and go down into Indiana and the first town we came to where I could see our paper up, we would stop and give a show. When we reached Valparaiso I saw that the town was billed for our show. When I stepped off the car, the first man I saw was 'Scarcity.' I said to him:

"Why on earth didn't you write me?"

"To be honest with you," said Scarcity, "when I arrived here, I found a minstrel troupe stranded. I felt sorry for them, and I told them that I would go with them a week or so and help them out, and I really didn't have time to write you."

"It didn't take us long to go broke this time, but I did not get back to Chicago for fifteen weeks. It was winter time and the roads were a fright. Every show man can tell you this about Indiana. Some how they never get to the front until they have made their way over Indiana clay roads.

"Even now, in my days of success, hard luck sometimes comes to me. A short time ago, we showed in Manistee, Mich. When we landed, I stepped into a carriage with part of my company and told the driver to take us to the theater. His team ran away, and we and our baggage were scattered along the streets for eight blocks. When I refused to pay him for trying to cripple and lacerate us, he wanted to 'vich the box office. Yes, sir, the show business lacks a heap of being all sunshine."

The Happiest Person Alive.

The person who has always been well takes health as a matter of course, and doesn't appreciate it. The happiest persons are those who have been cured after they have considered themselves incurable; they become anxious about their fellow men, and spread far and wide the good news of their regained health and the means by which it was accomplished. There is a great army of such people today who owe their present happiness and health to Dr. Greene and his great medical discoveries, and the testimony they bear of relief from the grip of decay and death bears out the broad statement that all the diseases arising out of the nerves and blood can be quickly and permanently conquered by this famous specialist. Among the potent remedies discovered by his research is the world famed Nervura. The office of Dr. Greene's remedies is at 148 State St., Chicago, Ill., and consultation is absolutely free, personally or by letter. To be told exactly your ills and what to take to be well by the most skilled physician free of all cost is the privilege of rich and poor alike. 2 letter will receive instant attention; and the reply and advice will be absolutely without charge.

WHY SO MANY REGULAR PHYSICIANS FAIL

To Cure Female Ills—Some True Reasons Why Mrs. Pinkham is More Successful Than the Family Doctors

A woman is sick; some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds something back, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and thus completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still, we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician.

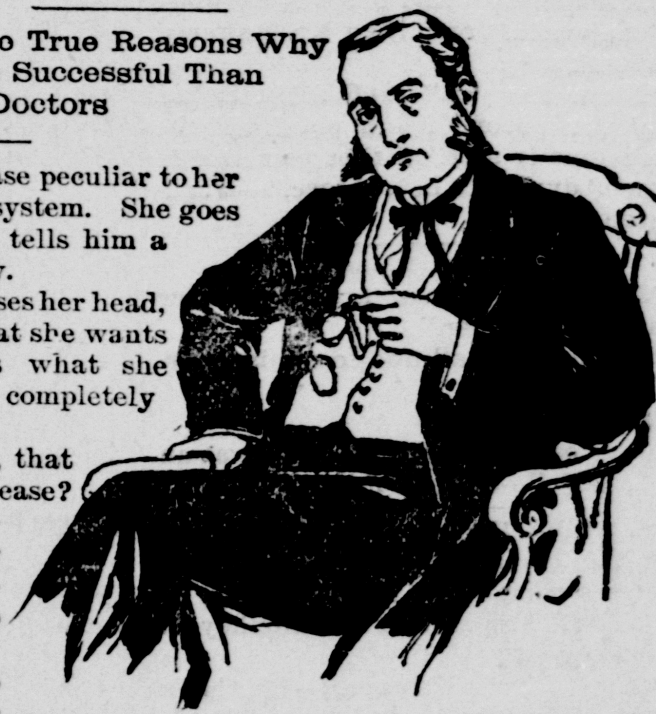

It was for this reason that years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., determined to step in and help her sex. Having had considerable experience in treating female ills with her Vegetable Compound, she encouraged the women of America to write to her for advice in regard to their complaints, and, being a woman, it was easy for her ailing sisters to pour into her ears every detail of their suffering.

In this way she was able to do for them what the physicians were unable to do, simply because she had the proper information to work upon, and from the little group of women who sought her advice years ago a great army of her fellow-beings are to-day constantly applying for advice and relief, and the fact that more than one hundred thousand of them have been successfully treated by Mrs. Pinkham during the last year is indicative of the grand results which are produced by her unequalled experience and training.

No physician in the world has had such a training, or has such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ills, from the simplest local irritation to the most complicated diseases of the womb.

This, therefore, is the reason why Mrs. Pinkham, in her laboratory at Lynn, Mass., is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own suffering who will not take the trouble to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

HAS A RIGHT TO SPEAK.

President McKinley has shown interest in the New York election, and it is right that he should. Here and there a critic of the "holier-than-thou" type is found who thinks a president has no right to take any interest in politics. Each president belongs to some party or other. Presumably he has belonged to that party or some other one for a good many years. He has attended its meetings, helped to put up its candidates, assisted in shaping its policy, and naturally has profound concern in that party's welfare. But under a code of political ethics which asserts itself occasionally, and which is particularly demonstrative in certain quarters at the present time when a man enters the White House he ought to leave all partisan predilections behind. There is inconsistency as well as stupidity in this position. Nobody thinks of attacking the president's privilege of appointing members of his own party to cabinet, diplomatic or judicial posts, but he is criticized frequently for taking any interest in that party's fortunes. President McKinley is too direct and straightforward a man to submit to such senseless restrictions.

FREE RURAL DELIVERY.

Rural free delivery has been put to the test of practical experiment in twenty-nine states and over forty-four different routes in the east. The cooperation of the communities served has in every instance been effectively given. The general satisfactory results suggest the feasibility of making rural delivery a permanent feature of postal administration in the United States; not immediately or in all districts at once, but in some gradual and graduated form regulated by the present experiments. Sooner or later the United States will have to follow the lead of the more densely populated countries and establish a delivery service over all the settled portions of its vast territory. Under wise restrictions it can be extended with great advantage to the agricultural class and without serious detriment to the revenues.

Who is responsible for the statement that champion Fitzsimmons and ex-candidate Bryan are to make a starring tour, Fitzsimmons to do the sparring and Bryan the starring? This would make a strong team in view of Fitzsimmons's well known popularity and Bryan's exceptional success of late in making speeches at county fairs for a share of the gate receipts.

President McKinley's action in appointing a special reciprocity commissioner to arrange details in this line with foreign countries with dispatch and without necessitating the ponderous delays of the state department, is generally commended as wise and needful.

TIME'S TEST.

Two lovers the same—I know them well—
Who learned the lesson love comes to teach,
Whose eyes are bright with the old, old light,
Whose hands seek each for each.
And this love of theirs seems a thing most rare,
For each of the lovers has silver hair.

His face is mellow with passing years,
But with never a line that is hard or bleak.
Her face is a rhyme of the olden time
With a tinge of red in her cheek.
And I deem this more than passing fair,
Since both of these lovers have silver hair.

Let time go by, but love may last,
As true as ever true love may be.
May theirs be the smile that after awhile
Shall wait for you and me!
Ah, sweeter would seem life's toil and care
If there were more lovers with silver hair!
—Post Wheeler in New York Press.

A MATTER OF VANITY

When I heard that Maud Jeffries was engaged to Jack Meadows, I took an early opportunity of congratulating them both, for they were both old friends of mine and charming people—especially Maud. She was an artist and painted very zealously in oil colors. She was in her studio when I called. So I went up to it and found her enveloped in a linen apron covered with the variegated colors of her palette. She was working at an unfinished painting, and so absorbed in it that at first she did not hear me enter. When she did, she turned quickly.

"No, it's not Meadows. I'm sorry," I said sympathetically.
"Oh, but I'm very glad to see you," she answered. "And you are just in time to help me. Do tell me what is wrong with this thing," and she pointed to the canvas.

"That is Meadows' privilege," I said. I offered her my good wishes and told her I was sure she would be happy. She blushed prettily and said, "We are very happy now."

"But how have you satisfied your conscience?" I asked. "I understood you had vowed yourself to the service of your art."

"Oh, but I will never give up my work," she protested earnestly. "Jack knows that. He wouldn't want me to. I think it is so wrong not to use one's gifts. Don't you?"

"Certainly, and I'm glad Jack sees that. He must be very proud of you," she hesitated. "I'm afraid he is not naturally very fond of art," she said, "but I hope he will soon learn to love it."

"He is really awfully good about it," she went on. "He is going to let me paint his portrait, and then we shall hang it in our dining room."

"That will be delightful," I said. "Look, here are some sketches for it," said Maud, drawing out some panels and charcoal drawings. "Don't you think they are like him?"

I recognized Meadows in spite of the varying expressions Maud had given him and said so at once. She was pleased, and just then Meadows came in.

"I am just admiring the studies for the great portrait," I said genially.

"Ah, yes, they are only rough sketches. The thing itself will be quite different, won't it, darling?" he said, with, I imagined, a shade of anxiety.

"Mr. Raller thinks they are excellent likenesses, Jack," she said happily. He looked at me sharply, but I boldly repeated my opinion.

A fortnight or so passed before I saw anything of Meadows or Maud, then I met Meadows. He looked worried, and when I asked him after Miss Jeffries he said shortly, "I believe she is quite well, thanks."

"And how is the portrait going on?" "It's not going on at all at present," he answered.

"How's that? Is she dissatisfied with it?" "No, she's not," he said, emphasizing the pronoun.

"Surely you are pleased?" said I. "Look here, Raller," he said, with a burst of confidence. "That wretched portrait is undermining my happiness. It's no more like me than that poster," and he pointed to a flaming placard.

"I'm not a vain chap, you know, but I do bar being handed down to posterity looking like a criminal lunatic."

"But it can't be as bad as that? Maud would never do you injustice," I said.

"Not intentionally, but she swears to the good likeness, though I can't see how she can. When I suggested it was a bit unflattering, she said she must paint what she saw, and that she could not tamper with the truth of art. I just laughed and said, joking, that there was room for a little more truth, and then she was hurt and said she had no idea that men could be so vain."

"And you left it at that?" "Yes, if you saw the thing you wouldn't be surprised."

"I should like to see it," I said. "Come along then. Maud is out this afternoon, her sister told me so. We will go to her studio, and you can give me your unbiased opinion."

So we went together and climbed up to Maud's painting room. The portrait, still wet, was on the easel. Meadows pointed to it in eloquent silence. I was silent too. It was so painfully realistic that it verged on caricature.

"Well," said Meadows, "could you live in the same house with it if it were your portrait?"

"One might get used to it in time," I answered.

"Yet she is fond of you," I said. "Surely if you ask her to suppress it as a personal favor?"

"She would only say it was my vanity," he answered gloomily. "There is nothing to be done. She must choose between me and my portrait, unless—"

"Unless what?" I asked as he paused. "You could persuade her. Tell her it doesn't do her justice, either of us justice. Do, there's a good fellow. She has no end of respect for you."

I could not resist his appeal and promised to do my best. "And surely that is she coming up the stairs now," said I as we heard footsteps.

"Yes. Well speak to her now," said Meadows.

He left me alone in the studio as Maud entered.

She greeted me with a weary smile and glanced directly at the portrait. "You have been looking at it?" she asked, mechanically taking up her palette and brushes.

"Yes," I said, and she seemed to expect me to say more.

"It's a good likeness, isn't it?" she remarked presently.

"It is too flattering," I answered, sitting down opposite it.

She looked at me suspiciously, but my face was full of innocence. "It doesn't think so," she said.

"But he is so absurdly vain," I said. "Not more than other men, I suppose," she retorted.

Her back was toward me and I could see her listlessly dabbling at the background of the portrait. "Yet you are he is not satisfied with that painting," I said. "What fault can he find?"

"Nothing definite; but he wants it to alter it."

"However painful it may be, you must keep your art pure. It is true that in the noble cause of realism you have accentuated his worse points."

"No, I haven't," she said with some heat.

"I honor you for it. Very few girls would have had the courage to treat the portrait of a lover in so bold a way, even to the suggestion of caricature."

"But you said I had flattered him," she cried.

"Truth is the highest flattery," I answered sententiously. "And if Meadows be not high minded enough to see it you will not regret his loss."

"His loss? What do you mean?" she exclaimed.

"I saw him just now. He does not appreciate your noble self sacrifice. He said if you had really loved him you would not have pointed out his homeliness to the world. He seemed to feel it a good deal."

"Homeliness! He is beautiful!" she cried indignantly.

"Really, my dear young lady, you can't say that with that almost speaking likeness in front of us, and I pointed to the portrait.

With a sudden movement she smudged a brushful of paint over the face on the canvas.

"What are you doing? Are you mad?" I said.

"No, not now."

"But remember the fine technique."

For an instant she paused—but only for an instant. Then she took some more paint and rubbed it violently over the portrait. I saw Meadows looking round the door and beckoned him in.

"Your portrait is done for," I said.

She threw down her palette. "Jack! Look at it!" she cried, with a laugh that seemed to catch in her throat.

There is now hanging in the Meadows' dining room a portrait of the master of the house. It is not at all a good painting, but Jack gazes at it with satisfaction. It is by his wife, and when her friends suggest that she has flattered her husband she smiles.

Once I saw her looking at it rather sadly and I asked her if she were regretting the one she had destroyed. Perhaps it was an indiscreet question.

She shook her head. "No, sometimes I think I acted hastily, for it really was good," she said.

"But surely this one is, on the whole, better?" said I.

"Jack thinks so," she answered, and she sighed.—Westminster Budget.

"Yes or No?"

A pretty story of how Henry M. Stanley wooed and won Miss Dorothy Tennant, though coming to us from private sources, has been made sufficiently public to avert the charge of undue personality. Miss Tennant, it is well known, was the original of Sir John Millais' famous picture, "Yes or No?" It seems that Stanley had asked the question, and the reply was "No."

The great explorer went to Africa again, and after several years returned to London, to find himself the most talked of man of the day.

The thought of Miss Tennant was still uppermost in his mind, and he resolved that his first visit should be to her home. In his impatience for the morrow he turned over the cards and notes with which the table was strewn, and selecting one haphazard decided to while away the time by attending a certain reception.

The first person he met there was Miss Tennant. They greeted each other formally, but later in the evening Stanley retired to a small anteroom, to find that Miss Tennant had likewise sought solitude. A somewhat embarrassing silence ensued, broken at last by the woman saying, with the manner of one "making conversation":

"Do you find London much changed, Mr. Stanley?"

"No, I haven't found London changed, and I've not changed either," returned the explorer, with his usual intrepidity. "Have you?"

"Yes, I've changed," answered Miss Tennant softly.

A few days later Millais received a note from his former subject, beginning:

It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly hygienic, containing neither arsenic, alum, or any other substance injurious to health, and can be used even as a baby powder.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.

Before he was 23 he was printing and selling 1,000,000 papers a week. Now he is several times a millionaire and growing richer every day.

To Settle Alaskan Boundary.

Washington, Oct. 26.—It is believed here that in view of the great prominence Alaska has achieved owing to the recent gold discoveries and the importance of definitely fixing its boundary line between our territory and that of the Dominion of Canada the senate, when it assembles in December, will take early action upon the treaty pending between Great Britain and the United States for the survey and marking of the 141st meridian. This treaty was sent to the senate two years ago.

South Has a Big Boom.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 26.—The industrial situation in the south shows many encouraging features and the Tradesman's southern correspondents among prominent manufacturers and dealers report a feeling of confidence and continued satisfaction as to the volume of trade. The iron and steel production is heavy, and the mills have orders on hand to keep them busy until the first of the year.

The lumber and textile industries are active, and coal operators report an increasing demand for their product.

Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

WE print anything, from a calling card to a poster. Give us a trial. GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test. GAZETTE PT'G CO.

Russian Blouses.

We show the noblest line in town, among them being some of the higher class that are gems of the cloak makers' art—exclusive styles direct from New York. A line for Misses' wear in sizes 14, 16 and 18 also in stock.

Coats for Girls.

Three hundred sample Coats for Misses, sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, inexpensive garments for school wear that are proper as regards style and make up. Cute Coats, ranging in price from $3 to $10, that would ordinarily be one-third more. Tell the girls to call in after school and see them.

Flannellette Wrappers.

The new line is in, and it displays well made Wrappers in a splendid range of patterns; all sizes, 32 to 44. All of the regular styles in Print Wrappers are shown—75c and up.

Silk Waists.

There is an air about the line we handle that attracts. Other stores show waists, but there is something lacking in them when compared to ours. The talk of the town among women is the excellence of our waist showings. All the latest in blouse effects are in the line.

Our Millinery

Is Parisian in everything but price—and the difference in the latter is all in the favor of our customers. No prettier, more stylish hats than ours could be obtained in Paris at four times the cost. We are showing copies of the best creations of the leading modistes at a fraction of the price you would have to pay for the originals. Better not buy your new hat without coming here first.

Comforter Coverings.

Another sale of them this week. About ten days ago we advertised a lot of prints for comforter coverings and dress purposer, expecting we had enough to last a week; but at the end of the first days' sale they were about cleaned out, with the result that many customers were disappointed. Direct from the mill we have received another two case lot consisting of 3000 yards, if anything a better lot than before; colors are black and white, silver greys, blues, reds, &c. They are Simpson's best standard prints and usually retail at 6c; for this sale price will be the same as at the former sale. 3 1/2c per yard.

Shoes are low priced all the time but at our special sales we tear the linings out of prices. Our fall stock never was more complete. We have reached the market high and low for the best, most serviceable Shoes. They are here at our store, and you will find the prices lower than others ask.
